Lastly, being located directly upon the sea shore, the air is always strongly Imprograted with sait, and our weoden buildings are so completely saturated with this anti-fire element, if we may be allowed the expression, that the wood does not easily catch fire, and the flame is slow to progress.

We think that these reasons are sensible and substantial; and we trust that our remarks will be attentively considered by our citizens, and that they will be speedily convinced that it is vastly for their interest to establish an Insur ance Company here immediately.

THE FALL OF THE PREE SOIL PARTY The Amherst Express, in commenting upon the Massachusetts election, remarks as follows :---

Whatever else may result from the election, the whereabouts of the free soil pray in the State is definitely set-tled. They have gone over to the em-brace of the Democracy, body and soul Throughout the contest the two organizations have fraternized most perfectly, working in the same harness like trainopposition, in many instances, to the units, the Coalition this year has been more firmly cemented than that of last, and as neither party can accomplish anything without the aid of the other, it follows as a matter of course, that each year will see them knit closer together, till one is swallowed up by the other.

This must be a glorious consumnation for the old anti-slavery men who left their former political organizations to battle against slavery. When they become swallowed in this Democracy, what becomes of their anti-slavery?— Has that party suddenly become more desirable as a means against slavery than their own anti-slavery organization? These remarks cannot but strike every reflecting, conscientious man in the Free

THE FRENCH PRESIDENT'S MESSAGE The anxiously expected document which should develope Louis Napoleon Bona parte's views and plans for the future, has at length made its appearance.

The National Assembly of France met on Tuesday, Nov. 4th, and on the afternoon of the same day, the message was, read from the tribune, by M. de

The President in his exordium, announces the general peacefulness of atfairs throughout France; but adds; "It would, however, be imprudent to flutter ourselves with illusions on this appearourselves with flusions of this appearance of tranquility. A vast demagaginal can conspirately is now organizing in France and Europe. Secret societies are endeavoring to extend their reasifications even into the smallest constitutions.

this combination, are then suggested, viz: to repeat the distranchising law of May 31st, 1850, by which the number of electors was reduced from 10,600,600 to 7.000,000; to set in operation various public works, in order to furnish labor to those able and willing to work; to encourage agriculture and commerce and to aid the poor by means of charitable megicutions.

By the extension of the elective fracchies, the President thinks the great argument for mother revolution will be taken away from the demogagues; and by giving work to the laboring chases and providing for the necessities of the poor, the element of discontent will be removed from the masses, who must turnsh the materials for every revolution. He also recommends relief for the suffering remnants of the Armics of the Republic and of the Empire.

He states that the Government were in as good a condition as direumstances permitted, and the deficit would not exceed the provisions of the budget.

A project of a law for the completion of the Louyre is announced. The domestic condition of the Pope is said to be so much improved that he would soon have a sufficiently respectable army for his protection without the aid of French buyonets. The liberality of Pricee Al bert and the English people in receiving the manufacturers and visiters of France at the Great Exhibition is praised.— England and France, it is announced have offered the co-operation of their naval forces with Spain in the protection of Cuba. The President expresses his regret at being obliged to separate from a ministry which had his entire confidence and esteem; but as he regarded universal suffrage as the only means of securing a revision of the Constitution, and the old Ministry opposed that measure, he was compelled to part with them.

Hon. Robert J. Walker the bright particular star of democracy, Mr. Polk's well known Free Trade Secretary, has been nominated for the Presidency of the United States by an English nobleman at an English dinner-and the nomination has been "ratified" by the English treetrade press.

With the present rate of emigration from Ireland, there will not be a million of Irish left in that country in 1852. The English, meantime, are hiring the estates and moving in, and the prospect is imminent, (says a Galway paper.) that the Celtic race will be extinct on its proper soil.

A San Stony .- The Cincinnati Nonpareil relates the following:-

" An incident which created considerable excitement occurred a few evenings since on Western Row. A young lady of respectable character and conhady of respectable character and con-nections, and possessing more then an ordinary share of personal beauty, en-tered the shoe store of Mrs. Daran, to select a pair of shoes. During a stay in the store, she began to exhibit yraptoms of insanity. At last she become so fran-tic and violent, that it was found neces-sary to restrain her. NEW YORK, Nov. 21st. The sad calamity at Greenwich Avenue School has been the all-absorbe ing topic of the day, and the excitement about the scene of the disaster is in to way diminished. Up to the present time, the number of deaths ascertained s fifty, and the list of injured is materially increased.

Justice Bleadley, the acting Coroner, and the jury, have been all day inspecting the dead bodies at the houses of their percents, and granting certificates of burial. Tonnerow morning the investigation will commence. The acvestigation will commence. counts of the agony of families and bereavement of parents are heart reading, and several persons, it is feared, Fire. The best means, in his view, to meet that come firemen who got into the building, finding the stairway blocked the banisters, and thus broke them down. The cutlamity is due, in a great degree, to thoughtless firemen and others outside, who raised the alarm of fire, and sur-rounded the building with rhours and cries well calculated to create a panic among the children.
